Q: How do we treat the water at the lakes?

A: The Township DPW treats the water for algae. Our water is full of high nutrient concentrations from fertilizers, rich soils and waterfowl wastes that flows into the lake. These conditions are favorable for the growth of algal and weeds. For this reason, chemical treatment can maintain an acceptable level of water quality.

Most of the problems with water quality at PV Park are associated with algae growth. DPW applies an EPA-registered Cutrine-Plus for algae control, designed for application on a regular basis, in low dose amounts, to maximize algae control and minimize the potential for adverse environmental risk. The lake is treated every 10-14 days.

PV Park has three above water aerators and an under eater aeration system that circulates the water. Also, the spillway between PV Park and Woodland Lake has been reopened allowing cool water from Woodland Lake to spill into PV Park therefore providing better circulation.

Q: Why does the lake close?

A: The Pequannock Township Health Department takes water samples around the lake once a week for bacteria levels which are sent to Garden State Laboratory to measure fecal coliform. If the samples return high again, the decision is made to either cordon off the specific area or close the facility.

Q: Can non-residents come to the lake for the day and bring guests?

A: YES! Non-residents can pay the daily rate and may bring up to 5 guest.
